Service Overview

Gradian's Design, Build, Integrate & Transfer (DBIT) service is available to customers demanding the highest level of professional consultancy and deployment expertise. They wish to take full advantage of a Vendor-certified and accredited UK-based skill set, providing substantive experience whilst delivering certainty & accelerating ROI.

The objective is to make your project successful. We will expedite your "time to live" in a controlled and measurable manner whilst effecting change in line with your security estate's unique infrastructure, and in full support of your compliance program. We are experts in this field and we operate in demanding environments.

Our DBIT service leverages over 40 years cumulative Enterprise experience. Regardless of whether you're looking for a new topology design, a cost-effective life cycle upgrade or knowledge augmentation, our Subject-Matter-Experts will ensure delivery executes against best practices at all times. Our consultants have the organisational and technical expertise to help you plan and execute your projects successfully.

Gradian's DBIT service embeds simplicity across all activities enabling us to consistently deliver against a set of measurable business milestones. Operationally tuned to meet the intrinsic demands of global customers, we provide a known "no-fuss" outcome.

Utilising a fixed-fee pricing model, DBIT promotes transparency from the outset providing you with full peace of mind. Well regarded within industry, our Consultants maintain high vendor-visibility permitting you to benefit from accelerated vendor escalation, should the need arise.

The DBIT service is ideal for ALL organisations looking for the zenith of technical expertise coupled with the highest possible chance of project success. Adoption of this service provides the downstream option to minimise third party risk by potentially leveraging a single point of contact for all areas of the technology solution, consultancy & ongoing support assistance if required.

Why Gradian?

Gradian is a data-centric messaging security and compliance specialist focusing on de-risking the use, misuse and abuse of email across your enterprise & entire supply chain. We hold the highest levels of Global Vendor-certification enabling us to most efficiently deliver technology solutions, consultancy and world class support services.

Representing just a handful of vendor technologies, we only align with those rated highly by the likes of Gartner, Forrester and IDC.

With a strong focus on partnership and core business values aligned to delivering you the best experience possible, you'll be exposed to the highest level of collaborative global expertise keen to develop and improve your security posture.

Collaboration means full hand holding and guidance throughout the optimisation process from solution design to implementation and the ongoing management of your portfolio.

With nearly 50 years' combined industry experience we've developed a bespoke skill set, an enviable knowledge base and experience that is second to none.

Our proven and robust industry pedigree allows us to provide a World Class service to clients regardless of size.

#Spooftproof

We will help you build back trust into your email across your users, devices and interactions (3rd party, B2B or B2C).

By delivering a mix of industry-leading products wrapped with best in class engineering and world-class after-sales services, we can take you to a security posture we call #Spooftproof.

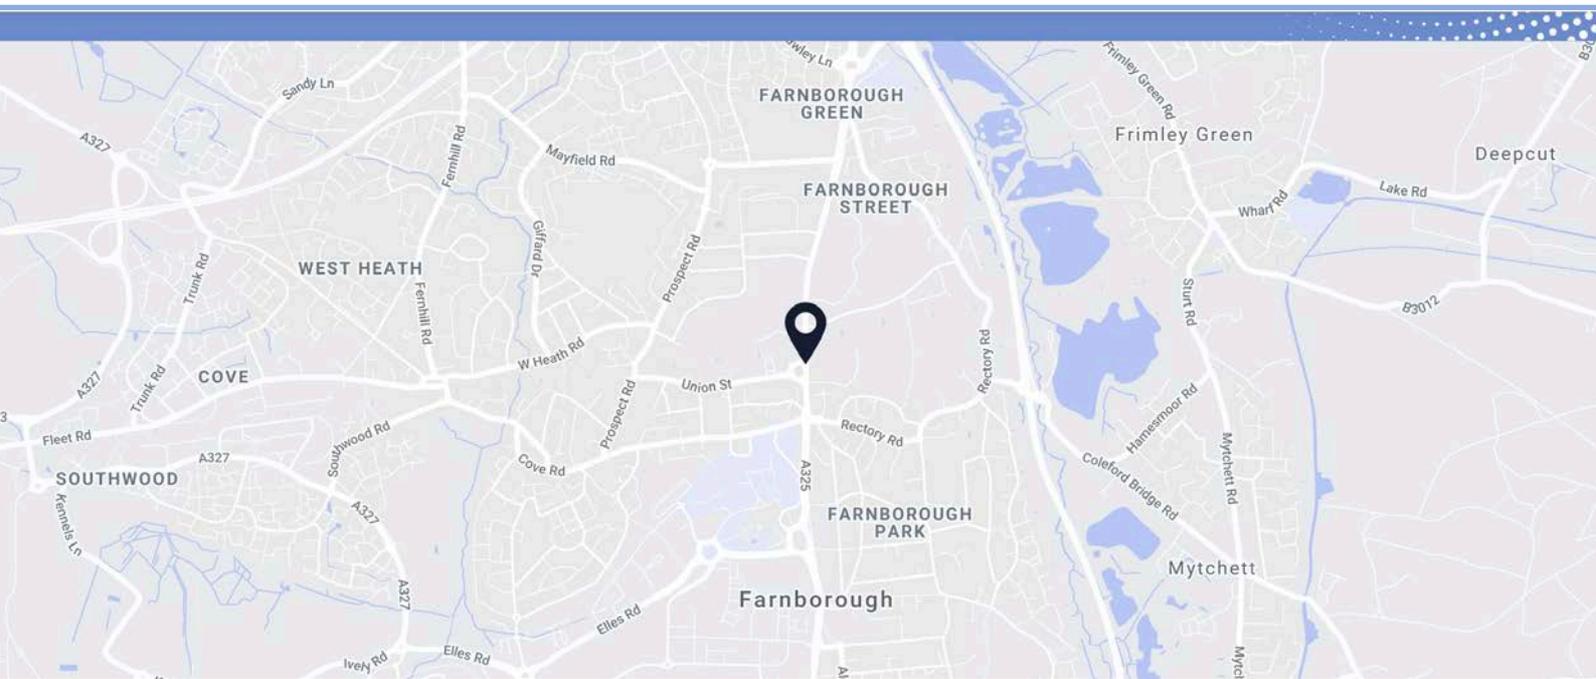

Working agnostically of both your messaging platform (whether it is on premise or cloud) and your gateway, we adopt a simple methodology that is both scalable and repeatable:

- Discover
- Implement
